Re: CSA Proposed Amendments Relating to the Offering Memorandum Exemption

Dear Madams:

I am writing to comment on the proposed amendments to NI 45-106, in particular the proposed annual investment limits for non-accredited investors.

Individuals have the freedom to risk as much money as they want gambling without any oversight; buy a car that depreciates as soon as it drives off the lot without any oversight; borrow more than they should to buy a house without any oversight; take out a line of credit for a vacation without any oversight; and max out their credit cards and pay absurd interest rates without any oversight.

Therefore, why should my investment choices be reduced when working with a registrant of the securities commission?

- The freedom to invest in the exempt market should not be limited to the very rich, with everyone else having a small annual contribution limit.

- Building an investment portfolio is an individualized process and I should not have my choices and options limited based on “boxed” annual contribution room limits because of the bad past experienced by a small percentage of the investing population who chose not to diversify.
- I, like some other investors, do not look at the illiquidity in exempt market investments as a “risk” and actually prefer having some of my assets sheltered from fluctuations of the public markets.
- I believe the government regulatory regime is overstepping their bounds and interfering with my personal choices and freedoms as an investor.
- I am aware of the risks (and opportunities) of investing in the exempt market and believe existing rules are adequate.
- I have worked and saved my whole life, and have accumulated a reasonable nest egg and don’t want to have an arbitrary annual contribution limit placed on how much I can invest in anything.
- I do not wish to have government policy ultimately decide where and how I should invest money; it is a highly personal decision based not only on my income and net worth, but my sophistication, risk tolerance, goals and preferences.

This submission is being made on my own behalf.

Regards,

Charlene Eyles
